Walker Wilcox Matousek LLP is pleased to announce that Robbie Moehlmann, formerly a partner with Donato, Minx, Brown & Pool, P.C., has joined the firm in its Houston, Texas office effective March 7, 2016. Robbie is a seasoned trial attorney with over 18 years of experience representing commercial and insurer clients in commercial, maritime, subrogation and sophisticated insurance coverage litigation throughout Texas and in numerous jurisdictions across the United States. Joining Robbie are attorneys Travis Erskine and Daniel Ray who worked with Robbie at his former firm and bring additional litigation experience and depth to the firm. The addition of Robbie, Travis and Daniel significantly increases the depth of the firm's Houston office and expands the firm's ability to continue providing high quality, client-centric services to its commercial and insurer clients.

"It is a rare opportunity to attract an attorney with Robbie's skill and experience at a time when that attorney is just entering the prime of his career. We are confident that the firm's existing clients will quite quickly see in Robbie the same traits that attracted us and also his current clients – a driven, highly-capable attorney committed to providing the highest level of service to his clients," said David Walker, one of the founding members of the firm.
